

At AMC Law we recognise that changing jobs is a stressful business, particularly when it comes to understanding the terms and implications of your employment contract and package.

Departing?

If you are considering, or are in the process of resignation, we can help you review your existing contract or service agreement and unravel the conditions that you may find yourself tied into.

Arriving?

If you are about to accept an offer of employment, we can carry out a review of the proposals on the table, and the effect of any terms you need to be aware of.

As a specialist employment and professional partnership law firm we are in a unique position to be able to advise on the complexities of employment contracts and the fine detail of terms and conditions. We can steer you through the minefields of restrictive covenants, bonus arrangements, shareholders agreements, partnership agreements, and all elements of your contract. We can also advise on the practical steps to deal with in team moves.

We offer an initial review at a fixed fee of £250 + VAT, and the promise of a 24 hour turnaround service from receiving the details of the contract.

A pair of hands is shown from the wrists up, tied together with thick, light-brown rope. The hands are holding a white piece of paper that has been crumpled at the edges. On the paper, the text "Don't let your contract tie you up in knots?" is printed in a bold, black, sans-serif font. The background is plain white.
